Meteora - Private Tour

Price: from $695 per person
Duration: 12 hours

A unique full-day tour from Athens to explore the captivating clifftop monasteries of Meteora, a stunning geological phenomenon and a UNESCO World Heritage site located near Kalambaka. This tour offers an unparalleled opportunity to witness the grandeur of one of the largest and most precariously built complexes of the Greek Orthodox Church monasteries, nestled in the heart of Central Greece.

The tour starts with early morning pickup from the hotel, heading straight for the city of Kalampaka. Built on the bank of the river Piniotis, the city marks the limit where the vast Thessaly Plain meets the Pindos mountain range.

Arguably one of the most beautiful locations in Greece, it is famous for the enormous boulders that stand tall all over the area. They are called Meteora, which literally translates as "hovering", and their name reflects the way six very old orthodox monasteries nest on top of the giant natural pillars.

Although their history fades into the early Christian years, it is believed that the first settlers of Meteora were hermit monks, living in caves that are abundant in the area. Sometime around 14th century AD the first of the six Eastern Orthodox Christian monasteries was built, naturally protected atop the high rocks and accessible by ropes and ladders that only the monks could deploy.

Today a paved road slithers among the rocks, allowing us to visit safely and effortlessly the Meteora Monasteries after just a few minutes' drive from Kalampaka.

The whole Meteora area is a year-long popular tourist attraction thanks to the otherworldly spectacle of the enormous standing rocks and the old monasteries that were masterfully hand-built up centuries ago. It is exactly the historical uniqueness of this place that prompted UNESCO to include Meteora to the list of World Heritage Sites.

Be it for its majestic, unspoiled nature, or the spiritual treat of what is considered to be the second most important group of Orthodox monasteries after Mount Athos, Meteora is also renowned as a climbing hotspot, offering an endless field of natural rock formations with varying degrees of difficulty.

Included in your tour are comfortable air-conditioned transportation, with an English-speaking driver to ensure a seamless experience. All taxes, fees, and handling charges are also covered, providing you with a hassle-free journey to explore this magnificent site.

However, it's important to note that meals, drinks, beverages, gratuities, and entrance fees to the Monasteries in Meteora are not included in the tour package.
